The Parish Church from the Bridge. "All Saints" Church is remarkable as being one of the largest Parish Churches in the country, and is practically a monument to the Rev. John Craig, Vicar in 1843, who designed the nave, chancel, and transepts. The great west window and the large circular windows in the transepts are considered very fine. The G.P.O. appears on the left of the picture.

My Dear Mother, another one of those imitation oil-paint cards. Beautifully got up I must say. Leamington appears to be rather an attractive place. I think it would appeal to me. This week-end is a good one for me. The early turn has done me a good turn for once. I knock off at 2 p.m. on Friday, and I don't go in again until 2 p.m. Monday afternoon. Love, etc.
